To whom it may concern,

I am a computer science major attending Cal State University Long Beach. I have recently finished a course which has taught me a variety of concepts that deal with developing a product. This course has helped me incorporate all of the skills I have gained through my academic career and apply them to producing an application.

I have gained experience creating a project proposal, gathering requirements, and producing a project plan with a roadmap. Creating a technical specification document is also a skill I have gained. I have had the opportunity to work with a development team to release certain features and present to a client. I have also learned the importance of using an iterative process when developing a product.

I am confident that I will be a great addition to the intern team and will be able to contribute with the ideas I will produce while being part of the team. I am a team player, and understand when to speak up.

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to become part of the team and collaborate to create incredible projects. I look forward to speaking with you soon.

Cordially ,

Abigail Castro
